Our thoughts go to Mandy Sulcoski on the death of Hawkeye, her nearly 6 year old Carolina Dog. Hawkeye's first family was Mandy's brother who found him in North Carolina, which has their own breed of wild dogs, people pick them up thinking they look like Husky's and are in for a whole different type of hyper! Hawkeye was definitely wild but Mandy would not have traded him for any other dog in the world, he was the best. Most people would have looked at Hawkeye and taken him straight back to the pound, Mandy looked at him and said "you and I are going to get into trouble"! There wasn't any type of food or treat Hawkeye didn't like and his favorite toys were little rubber ducks that he would bite the heads off of and then toss them up into the air catching them like a circus dog! Island camping every year with Mandy's best friend and her dogs was one of Hawkeye's all time favorite things, after 'his people'. He truly loved with his entire soul 'his people', mommy, dad, grandma, the aunts they were all his & he knew it. He did not prefer other dogs and absolutely adored the water, they called him their 'water dog', and 'Prince Lu Lu' because he would always act so tough when in reality, he was just a momma's boy. This spunky souled sweet boy will be missed dearly every day but he will always be remembered in the families' hearts.
